

Emergency Department - Clinical Note

Date: 10-DEC-2023

Time: 14:35

Patient: Jane Doe

DOB: 05/18/1990 (age 33)

Sex: F

Reporter: Dr. A. Peterson, MD

Attending Emergency Physician
St. Mary's General Hospital
Emergency Department
USA

Chief Complaint: Acute allergic reaction after self-injection.

History of Present Illness: Pt is a 33 y/o F who presented to the ED with acute onset of generalized hives, facial swelling, difficulty breathing approximately 20 minutes after self-injection of InjectaPen on 10-DEC-2023. Dose not stated. Indication not stated. Pt reports self-injection (subcutaneous).

Suspect Product: InjectaPen

Dose: Not stated

Route: Subcutaneous / self-injection

Frequency: Not stated (single acute event)

Indication: Not stated

Symptoms / Findings:

- Acute anaphylaxis (Grade 3)
- Generalized urticaria / hives
- Facial and perioral angioedema
- Inspiratory stridor
- Profound hypotension

Vital Signs (on arrival):

BP: 85/50 mmHg

HR: 128 bpm

SpO₂: 91% (room air)

Management:

- Epinephrine 0.3 mg IM
- High-flow oxygen
- IV fluid resuscitation
- Emergency unit admission

Seriousness Assessment:

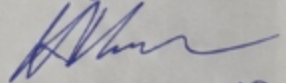

- Serious: Yes
- Life-threatening: Yes
- Hospitalization: Yes
- Death: No

Outcome: Recovering / admitted to emergency unit.

Dechallenge: Not applicable — single acute dose.

Rechallenge: Not done / not stated.

Additional Notes: Dose and lot number were unrecorded at bedside triage.

A. Peterson, MD
10-DEC-2023